Dear Sir or Madam:

Howdy! My name is Pamela Beltran, and I would like to take this moment to acquaint you with one of Texas A&M University's proudest student organization: The Philippine Student Association (PhilSA). Our mission as a cultural organization is to promote unity, brotherhood and community service; we enhance awareness of the Filipino culture, foster goodwill and develop a working relationship with the students of Texas A&M. We also strive to achieve the highest levels of academic excellence within our membership.

We are one of the most active student organizations at Texas A&M and are often invited to participate in numerous campus events and performances throughout the entire year. These occasions give us the opportunity to spread Filipino culture wherever we go. We take pride in these presentations and in the knowledge that our organization is making an impact no matter where we are – on campus or throughout Texas.

On March 19, 2010, PhilSA will be hosting the 20th anniversary of GoodPhil, an intercollegiate competition among ten schools presenting an array of culture, dance, spirit, and sports. This three-day event usually attracts thousands of participants each year, and this year, PhilSA aspires to host "The Best GoodPhil Ever." Due to the challenges ahead of us, we are kindly asking for your support.

Attached is a form for donations and advertisement spaces in the GoodPhil 2010 program. Please be as generous as you can in helping us fund this important event.

If you have any further questions or are interested in attending GoodPhil, you may contact me or PhilSA's president:

On behalf of PhilSA, I would like to thank you for your time and consideration. Maraming salamat po!

Sincerely,

Pamela Beltran
